

Carey's Corner

On APRIL 15, 1947 Jackie Robinson broke Major League Baseball's color line when he made his debut with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The former, four-sport athlete out of UCLA went on to become the "Rookie of the Year" in 1947, an all-star for six straight years, "Most Valuable Player" and National League batting champ in 1949, a member of the all-century team, and a member of the Major League Baseball Hall of Fame. His #42 was retired from all of Major League Baseball, and he was a World Series Champion in 1955, when the Brooklyn Dodgers won their only World Series title.

That championship was predicted by the Dorchester Lumbago League's legendary, left-handed pitcher/outfielder — the late Harry Carey, who was born on APRIL 15, 1934.

Until next time this is Dick Carey reminding you that, at Carey's Corner, you always have someone in your corner.
